SITUATION

Enjoying spectacular far-reaching views across St Ives Bay and along the dramatic North Cornish coastline towards Trevoze Head, Lowena occupies a highly sought-after position on the seaward side of Carbis Bay. Carbis Bay Beach is within easy reach and, at low tide, it is possible to walk around the eastern headland onto the beautiful expanse of Porthkidney Sands.

Surrounding St Ives is a collection of magnificent beaches, each offering its own unique character. Porthmeor Beach, home to the world-renowned Tate St Ives and facing the Atlantic Ocean, is particularly popular with surfers, while the sheltered beaches of St Ives Bay are favoured by families and those seeking calmer waters. The area provides an excellent range of leisure opportunities, including water sports, coastal walks and sailing, whilst the highly regarded West Cornwall Golf Club, overlooking the estuary, lies less than a mile away. St Ives itself is famed for its charming maze of narrow cobbled streets, lined with traditional fishermen's cottages alongside an eclectic mix of boutiques, galleries, cafés and restaurants. The picturesque granite harbour remains a focal point of the town, with local fishing boats still mooring alongside the pier and a sandy beach nestled beside it. A scenic branch railway line connects Carbis Bay and St Ives to the main London to Penzance line at nearby St Erth, providing convenient transport links to the wider region.
