Built around 2010 to reflect the period character of its surroundings, this attractive town house features red brick elevations, clay pantile roof, and coated low-maintenance sash-style windows. The four-panel front door opens into a welcoming lounge, where a white spindle staircase rises to the first floor and a useful under-stairs cupboard houses the electric consumer unit and meter. Finished with coved ceilings, a central heating thermostat and a wide window with Venetian blind, the room is a bright and adaptable living space.

To the rear, the dining kitchen stretches the full width of the house and is fitted with a long run of cream gloss-fronted base and wall units, with brushed steel handles, woodblock-effect worktops and a stainless steel sink beneath a window overlooking the garden. A Zanussi oven, four-ring gas hob, extractor hood and integrated dishwasher are all in place, with space for a washing machine and tall fridge freezer. Spotlights and pelmet lighting add a touch of modern style, and a part-glazed rear door opens to the courtyard garden. Off the kitchen is a compact cloakroom/WC with corner basin, tiled splashback, extractor and radiator.

Upstairs, the landing gives access to three bedrooms and a smart family bathroom, with white six-panel doors throughout and a balustrade continuing from the staircase. The principal bedroom, at the front, is a comfortable double with sash-style window and radiator. The second bedroom, at the rear, is another double with fitted wardrobes behind sliding white doors—neatly concealing shelves, hanging space and drawers. The third bedroom is a single, ideal as a study, child’s room or dressing space, and includes a cupboard built above the staircase bulkhead.

The bathroom is light and well presented, with ceramic tiled floor and walls, panelled bath with shower over and glazed screen, pedestal basin, corner WC, mirrored cabinet, extractor fan and a rear window with white Venetian blind.

The rear garden is private and attractively enclosed, with slab-paved paths and patio creating space for seating or outdoor dining. A gravelled border adds texture, and close-boarded timber fencing with concrete posts provides secure boundaries. A screen pedestrian gate connects to a shared pathway running through the mews, accessed from a covered archway beside the neighbouring property. There’s also an outside light, tap, and external power point—ideal for gardening or summer entertaining.

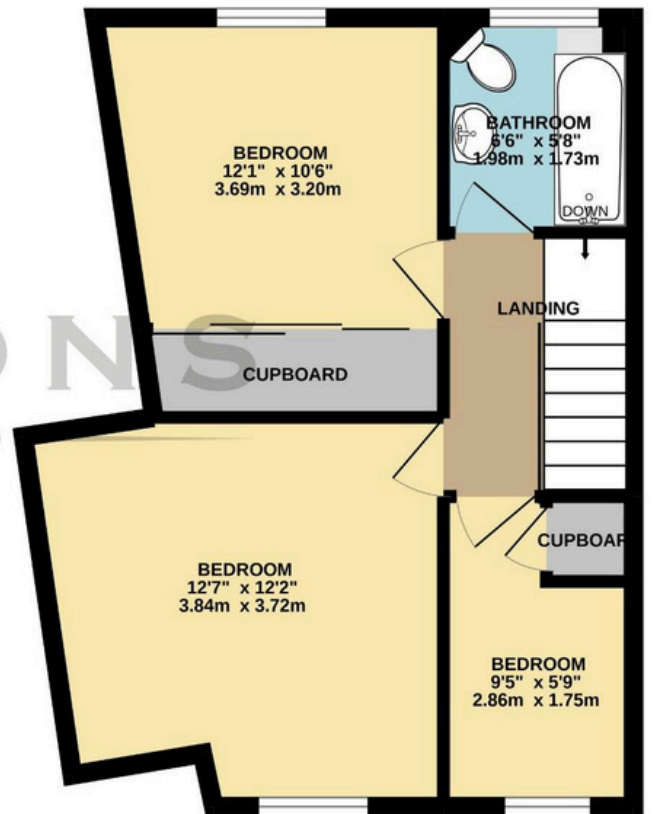

To the front, a paved courtyard provides one allocated parking space, positioned directly outside No. 7. The mews enjoys a quiet, tucked-away feel, with easy access to the shops, markets and amenities of central Louth just a short walk away.
