SITUATION

Pipers is situated within the hamlet of Gidcott in a peaceful part of Devon surrounded by rolling fields and wooded coombes with the peaks of the Dartmoor National Park in the distance.

The nearest village is Shebbear (2 miles) which has a village shop, a mobile Post Office, a pub (The Devil's Stone Inn,) a Primary School and the independent Shebbear College. The market town of Holsworthy (7 miles) provides a wider range of shops and services including a Waitrose supermarket and a livestock market.

The A388 road is within easy reach and provides a link between Holsworthy and the town of Bideford which lies on the River Torridge Estuary.

DESCRIPTION

Pipers is a rural small-holding which includes a former farmhouse for improvement and modernisation set within 8.20 acres. The property is set back from the road and approached over its own entrance lane.

The detached house is not Listed and has a south-facing aspect with mostly rendered stone walls under a slate roof (material unknown). The internal accommodation current includes a living room, a dining room and a kitchen on the ground floor and on the first floor there are four bedrooms and a bathroom.

Within the same structure as the house is the former parlour and dairy and this space offers potential for conversion to extend the existing living accommodation, subject to planning consent being obtained.

Outside there are areas of lawn surrounding the house on three sides and a partly constructed farm building to the rear of the house and a further open fronted cattle building which has a steel frame and is enclosed with timber cladding.

The land comprises three grass fields which have been used for grazing during recent years.

ADDITIONAL LOTS AVAILABLE
