The site occupies a stunning position overlooking an unspoilt part of the North Devon coast and includes a barn with planning consent for conversion within 33.60 acres (13.60 hectares) of pasture land which lies at about 159 metres above sea level.

The land comprises four enclosures of grass land which is level or gently sloping and currently used for grazing. The sloping sections have a north to north-east facing aspect and there are views towards South Wales on a clear day and over rolling countryside to the south and east.

There are small pockets of woodland and a sheltered pond to the north-west of the buildings.
