SITUATION

Sevenhampton stands as one of the region's most exclusive and coveted settlements, cradled by the sweeping valleys of the Cotswolds National Landscape just six miles east of Cheltenham and twelve miles from Stow-on-the-Wold. This remarkably tranquil village is characterised by its striking period architecture and classic drystone-walled lanes, delivering an idyllic sense of country isolation whilst maintaining superb regional links.

At the core of the parish is a fine collection of heritage homes, anchored by the architectural splendour of the Grade I listed St Andrew's Church, a beautiful Norman landmark overlooking the upper Coln Valley. Local civic life revolves around the active Rhodes Memorial Hall, while a fantastic selection of classic country pubs, farm shops, and fine dining options are easily accessible in neighbouring Andoversford, Guiting Power, and Winchcombe. Practical day-to-day requirements and primary schooling are excellently provided for in nearby Andoversford, which features a well-stocked village store and post office, whilst the close proximity of the A40 facilitates effortless travel towards Cheltenham, Oxford, and London.

Country pursuits are immediately on the doorstep, with a rich network of public footpaths and bridleways winding straight into the High Wolds and the ancient canopy of Puckham Woods. Sevenhampton's enduring appeal is found in this exact combination: it offers an untouched retreat of quintessential character, ideally suited for discerning buyers who demand seamless proximity to premium town-centre amenities alongside the profound peace of an elite country address.
